Disclosure Statement and Agreement for Focusing Training and Guided Focusing Sessions

The training services I offer relating to the Focusing process are not psychotherapy, are not a substitute for psychotherapy, nor are they intended as health care of any kind. If you have a mental, emotional, or physical condition that requires the care of a mental health counselor, psychotherapist or a physician, I will be happy to help you to find appropriate care.

While I am a licensed mental health counselor, the Focusing Training and Guided Focusing Sessions I offer are not mental health counseling and is not intended to diagnose or treat any physical or mental illness, dysfunction or condition. Focusing is not a “quick fix” but rather a process by which one can learn skills to find and nurture your inner wisdom.

Professional Confidentiality

I strive to keep the details and content of our sessions private at all times. As a Focusing Trainer and Coordinator, I am engaged in an ever-learning profession. For this reason, I may receive guidance from other Focusing Practitioners regarding my work with clients. As part of this professional development process, I may ask you if I can record our sessions. You are free to say yes or no. If you say yes, your recordings will only be use by me for the professional guidance process.

I am required by law to disclose certain information including suspected abuse of children under RCW 26.44 and RCW 18.19.180(3), or suspected abuse of vulnerable adults under RCW 74.34.

If you have any questions regarding your privacy, please let me know. I will be happy to discuss this with you further.

The cost of each 50-minute Focusing Training session is $120. Payment is due at the beginning of each session. If you are unable to keep your appointment, you must give me 48 hours advance notice or you will be charged for the session.
